YOU'LL have the time of your life! For this amazing picture takes you behind the scenes of Broadway theatrical life! Jazz, wild parties, the scenes of the backstage that you've ever seen—and the other side, too, the drama back of the bright lights. The exciting story of an actress who left a husband to a stage career and regained his love through her trust in him.

Coming Next Week "A Son of His Father."

Wheat Cutting Progressing; Latest Fields Ready by Monday

Some twenty-five new binders and eight new threshing outfits, at least, will assist in handling this year's crop, cutting of which is now well under way. Unexpectedly cool weather has slowed up the ripening process to some extent, but the large majority of farmers now have binders in the field and everyone will be cutting by the first of the week. Stockists are making their appearance rapidly in every direction and by Saturday night a good start will have been achieved. Men have been coming into town steadily, and have been moved to the country as fast as they have made their appearance. J. M. Moffatt rendering valuable service in their prompt distribution. Work on threshing outfits is in evidence everywhere, and it is expected most of the machines will be in operation before September 1st.

Champion Stock Man Wins Many Prizes

At Carmangay fair Alex McDougall made practically a clean sweep in the sheep and lamb classes, securing the following prizes: short horn bull, 3 years old, 1st; yearling bull, 1st; cows, 1 and 3; two year old heifers, 1, 2 and 3; yearling lambs, 1, 2 and 3; calves 1 and 2. In Hampshire and Oxford sheep he secured all the prizes, and also on best grade mutton sheep and best grade mutton wether. In Clydesdale he secured first for pure bred mare, 1926 foal, one year old stallion and second for yearling filly. In the Clydesdale competition was keen, but in the other classes the McDougall exhibit outclassed all competitors.

MARYN—BARR

A lovely church wedding occurred in Emmanuel Baptist church on Wednesday evening, June 30th, when Miss Vesper Irene Maynard became the wife of Mr. Albert Templeton Barr. Members of the Amnon class had arranged beautiful decoration. As Miss Esther Kelso played the wedding march the bridal party entered and took their places on the platform. They were preceded by a tiny flower girl and a small boy bearing the ring. Immediately after the ceremony, which was read by Rev. Frank Durham, the bride and groom went to the Beginner's room where they received the congratulations of their friends. After a honeymoon spent in San Francisco and places farther north Mr. and Mrs. Barr will live in Los Angeles—Angela Mesa News

Tax Commission Making Progress

Dr. Tony, chairman of the taxation committee appointed by the government of Alberta to study taxation and other financial problems, announces that the work is progressing most satisfactorily, and that considerable information has been gathered from all parts of Canada, the United States and other dominions. Sittings have been held during the past week, at which representatives of urban and rural municipalities have been heard in respect to their various taxation problems. The chairman and secretary have spent considerable time assembling and compiling the mass of documents which have come to hand, and in the preparation of comparative tables of revenues and expenditures.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Henry Ford is of the opinion that the movement to the cities should be encouraged instead of discouraged as one man can now grow as much as three men could a generation ago.

E. J. Garland was the unanimous choice of the U.F.A. convention held in Calgary. In his address to the convention Mr. Garland made plain that in his opinion himself and his associates in the U.F.A. are the only honest men in politics.

It is a matter of regret that weed cutting in the village should be delayed until the weeds are practically ripe and full of seed. This is one place where a weed killed in time would prevent nine from growing next year, or rather 9,000.

A big improvement has been made in town during the season by the application of power to business and residential properties. It is very doubtful if such satisfactory results in appearance could be obtained by the outlay in any other way.

NEWS NOTES

The crop report issued by the provincial department of agriculture on August 7th says the area in crop is larger than last year, so that the general conclusion which may be arrived at for the present is that the wheat yield will be up to last year's total, not exceeding it. In the areas which have suffered from a continual lack of moisture, however, notably in the south-eastern section, and the belt from Edmonton east and northeast, the crop will be very light. In certain parts of this territory some ten per cent of the crops will not be cut, the rest of it yielding from five bushels upward. The oats and barley crop will be light, owing to lack of moisture in the latter part of the season.

The congress of the Canadian co-operative league with representatives from all parts of Canada, was held at the parliament buildings, Edmonton, during the past week. Co-operative merchandising in all its phases was discussed at the con-

Another. The progress of the co-operative store in Canada was indicated by one report which showed that in 1921 fourteen societies had suggested sales of $2,075,000. Outside visitors at the congress included Messrs. Chas. T. Darch, John Penny, J. G. Alexander, of the co-operative wholesale society of England, and John Walker of Illinois, who added considerably to the debates held during the session of the congress.

Frederick Hunt, associate editor of Canadian Politician magazine, has purchased a ranch in Alberta, in the neighborhood of the Prince of Wales ranch near High River. Mr. Hunt has been spending the summer in Alberta.

The Lethbridge Northern Irrigation Tract, opened for settlement, is proving prosperous to the farmers operating there. In 1921 the total production on the tract was valued at less than $400,000. This year it is expected to reach $2,000,000. New towns are growing up following the recent extension of the railway, and fine homes are being built up.

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railway for the period ending July 31st, 1920, were $7,408,739, as compared with $7,059,927 for the corresponding period of 1925, an increase of $349,012, or five per cent.

From 500 to 600 Alberta horses are being purchased for shipment to Russia. These are animals weighing from 1,000 to 1,400 pounds, rather light for the Alberta demand but just what the Russian needs. This is in the nature of a test order and if the horses give satisfaction it is expected that repeat orders on a larger scale will be received.

The rapid growth of the national herd in Buffalo National Park, Wanwright, forces the government to seek other means of reducing the herds to proportions that are within the grazing capacity of the park, than that of shipping them to the wood bison range in the vicinity of Fort Smith. It has been decided to dispose of an additional 2,000 animals on the hoof, by tender, the understanding being that the animals so purchased will be slaughtered and the meat and hides disposed of on the public markets. Last year 1,634 buffaloes were successfully transported to Canadian National Railways to the northern range in the Northwest Territories, but this depletion of the herd was offset by the annual increase.

Source of Rust Infection In Western Canada

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The reason for sudden appearance of rust over large areas in Western Canada is commonly the subject of much speculation. Since we know that infection can arise only through the agency of rust spores, the question resolves itself into determining the possible sources of origin of these spores. There are three possibilities.

In the first place rust must live over from one season to another. While this has been shown to occur in Texas, there has never been any conclusive demonstration of it in Western Canada. On the contrary there is a great deal of evidence indicating that each year practically all the rust spores capable of attacking cereals are destroyed during either the winter or the early spring. It seems certain that over wintered spores are not the chief source of our rust.

In the second place, our early infection may come from rusted berries. Berries rust very generally in Western Canada and wherever they occur they are unquestionably a factor as local centres from which infection spreads. However, barberries have been practically eradicated from Manitoba and Saskatchewan and evidently cannot be responsible for much of our rust.

This leaves the last possibility, airborne spores from elsewhere, and there is much experimental evidence to support the idea that rust does blow up from the south each year. Data obtained last year from slides exposed for the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory by the Royal Canadian Air Force indicated that rust spores were present in the air in enormous numbers over rusted areas and they were carried long distances by the wind. A few spores were caught before rust was present in Western Canada and these must have been blown from farther south where rust was prevalent. The general spread of rust north and west across Western Canada each year still further supports the idea that our early infections are initiated by wind-borne spore from the south.

Why Many Homes Are Damp Inside

Builders agree that the dryness of a building depends largely on the insulating powers of its heating paper.

Hercules is the only building paper which offers 100 per cent. protection against winds and dampness. Its hard protective surface is obtained by using an exclusive coating preparation that is absolutely involatile.

The reduced heating expenses more than offset the slight extra cost of Hercules.

There Isn't Time

Preparing for a brief holiday at a summer cottage on one of our lovely Western lakes, the writer of this column found a few old magazines in his trunk wherein to pass an idle hour while waiting under the trees. Glancing through one of these his eye was caught by an article appearing under the heading which appears at the top of this column:

"How often are people heard to exclaim, 'I haven't time' or 'There isn't time' induced by the desire to do something which ought to be done. And how false and shallow such an excuse can be!" The necessary time can always be found for the discharge of one's duties and obligations if the will to do it is evident.

But on the other hand, it is perfectly true that "there isn't time" for things which are never-ending. Many people expend an enormous amount of time while thinking, writing, or reading.

Time may appear long and slow of movement when measured by centuries and the history of nations, but it is fast and fleeting when gauged by the life of individuals. Men who have lived long and very active lives will find many achievements have at the close of their careers expressed their regret in the words, "I have not time."

Time, however, is not to be measured by the number of hours, minutes, or seconds, but by the number of precious gifts of life given. Because the span of human life is brief, every moment should be put to the best possible use. Suffered if it should be devoted to healthful pursuits and invigorating exercise and recreation in order that the body may be kept strong and physically fit to keep the mind alert and active and the body capable of doing its best.

Only then can the best use be made of all the time allotted to the individual.

But, let it be repeated and emphasized, there isn't time in even the longest life for some things. Sorrow comes to all at some time or other, but "there isn't time" to waste in brooding over one's sorrow and losses. To do so merely means to further shorten life.

Worry, worry, worry. Worry kills. It accomplishes nothing, but is wholly destructive and undermining. It is stark, proper and altogether sensible and prudent to take thought of and for the future, but many people confuse this desirable trait with needless, senseless worry. "Life is too brief to hunt for grief, for thorns among the flowers."

Worry may be today by what friends or others say about us. We may be misguided, our actions misinterpreted, our words misinterpreted. We may be worried by the vision of possible losses, losses that will hurt, but, "there isn't time" to let them long annoy. Along with them there are also many things to make us happy and glad, and we need all the time there is for the bright and joyous life of life.

Life is too short for thoughts of malice, hatred and revenge. Worry may be caused by the thought of the time when our way of the world of the slaveholder will be ended and his evil words effectively answered. "Life isn't just time for song and love, and things sublime. Be not concerned with thoughts that burned. Good friends, there isn't time."

People there are who are so busy in this life getting everything out of it while there is time, that they have no time to think, nor time to plan, nor time to prepare for a much life in which we all hold. Those who are others so absorbed with thoughts of that future life that they become negligent of the duties and responsibilities of life like and their obligations to others, and lead narrow, selfish lives in a continual atmosphere of gloom. Both are wrong. There isn't time for such misconceptions of the true meaning of life.

Finally, for most of us, time will spent if ours is a while in the busyness of an evening house, made a mental inventory of our days, weeks, and months, and carefully classified under appropriate headings the use being made of the time allotted to us. Are we using this precious inheritance, which time neglected is immediately gone never to return, for the improvement of our minds, an increase in our talents and powers, and devoting all the best of which we are capable for the advancement of our age and race? Or are we wasting precious hours and days on matters and things for which, after all, probably there has only time to spare?

Really a Language

The call of the cricket is really a language. It is said to have been produced by a rooster which, when it was啄, a female cricket was made to call through a cricket was made to call through a telephone, whereupon a male insect at the other end of the line became excited on hearing the note.

RETAIN YOUR VIGOR

This Can Only be Done by Keeping the Blood Rich and Red

If you would retain your vigor and health, you must keep your blood in good condition. Anemia, or this blood lowers the vitality, starves the body, and causes the body to be in a bad condition. When the blood is thin the skin loses its color, the body becomes weak and listless. The victim of anemia loses appetite, suffers from indigestion, headaches, and other diseases. It is often exhausted after slight exertion. If you have any of these symptoms do not be afraid to consult Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and you will be greatly relieved. They are made from the best of the thousands who have found new health through the use of this medicine.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are well known for their value.

Turkish Women Are Efficient

Great Work Being Done By Them In Constantinople

Illusions regarding women have been broken right and left during the last few years. The final blow, however, comes from Kathryn Newell Adams, president of the Constantinople Women's College, Miss Adams, who was in the United States for the summer holidays said that Turkish women have an extreme active suffrage society, are clearing out the slums, are building schools, cleaning up the red light districts in the city, actively campaigning for prohibition, organizing trade schools for children, using the mosquito control system, organizing children clubs, and are stations, child health centers, and nursing homes where beggars who are found on the streets are taken and taught an honest trade. In other words, Turkish women are not the clinging vines, lacking all initiative, but efficient, able and efficient, that western nations have pictured them to be.

Armed Artist Wins Honors

Work of Japanese Girl Sold For Large Sum

A Japanese girl, handicapped by the loss of both arms, but possessed of great courage, astounded Tokio art critics by carrying off the honors of the "Peeresses" competition. Holding specially selected pictures, the artist, who is the daughter of a Japanese painter, had for several years painted obi, the decorative cash wrap of all Japanese women. Some of her work at the exhibition sold for $1,000. Miss Yamada, the artist, was born a geisha girl. After she had learned the samurai and graceful dances which pleased the Japanese, tired of her, one night her father suddenly became insane, killed her five brothers and sisters and left off her name.

Has Adopted Peasant Dress Excepting On State Occasions

Queen Maria of Rumania, in the interest of economy and good feeding, has adopted Rumanian peasant dress. Only at court ceremonies or elaborate state occasions does she wear European silks or satins. Even while walking in the streets of Bucharest she wears a simple, well-made dress, and the pictures show her in a peasant's costume of the peasant woman, with designs worked in gold, red or blue thread, with a flowing kerchief wound around her head, a bright red and white handkerchief, and red leather boots.

"Shall we begin with Rody?" Brandon asked, and they did. Joanna sighted him on the table as brand extorted her to tell him a certain picture of a wistful girl a picture she classified as of a romantic idler in a colorful domain.

A bachelor's lodge at Palm Beach where he was to have that company of women whose husbands were absent at home, and with whom, while his wife was blushing gorgeously and reverently—beneath the Florida palms, and make their play at the Florida palms, and make their play at the Florida palms, America's greatest gambling rooms; a wiser and more experienced woman should be in the parlors of selectness, and the amateur dabbler among the studio mothers of New York's Greenwich Village, a sportswoman in England, where he had, occasionally, with the heart of a contented fool, and a heart-sick pat on all the beauty and the bazaar that is France.

"A woman need never fear of being seen with our Rody in attendance upon her," Brandon added to his general description. "His affairs are so much in the public eye that he has become interested in a new one. He adds just the proper perspective to any young woman's background, for to be admired by Rody is a cache of extremely romantic worthiness."

"Our business—doesn't he really do anything?" Joanna wanted to know.

"He's of a family, you know. Inherited money. I believe he would explain that it is the duty of the gentleman who can to be a good gentleman who can't pay the piper for his pleasures. That keeps him moderately fond of youth—young youth, such as you're, or seasoned youth, such as Yvonne's."

THIS WOMAN NOW WELL

Her Suffering Relieved and Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinckham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario. "I am certainly very grateful for the benefit I have received from Lydia E. Pinckham's Vegetable Compound. I have been taking it since Spring and I attest to the fact that my health is the best it has ever been. After reading your Primal Text-Book I saw it was necessary to take a more active part in my exercise. Wash, and I can safely say I feel a different woman. My friends think I am a bit crazy, but I am a busy woman, but I am ready at all times to boast my medicines." Lydia E. Pinckham's Vegetable Compound is advertised in the "Toronto Star," and I find the Vegetable Compound is the best I have ever taken. I have been taking it since Spring and I attest to the fact that my health is the best it has ever been. After reading your Primal Text-Book I saw it was necessary to take a more active part in my exercise. Wash, and I can safely say I feel a different woman. My friends think I am a bit crazy, but I am a busy woman, but I am ready at all times to boast my medicines." Lydia E. Pinckham's Vegetable Compound will help her, since we are told that she is the mother of over 100 women who take it.

Sold by druggists everywhere.

A Wonderful Camera

More Wonderful in Some Ways Than the Human Eye

There is a camera in London which is capable of recording pictures at the rate of 300,000 a minute. Strange that man can make "machines" more wonderful in some ways than the human body. The human eye in comparison with the camera, cannot receive more than thirty impressions in a second. The new camera is 100 times as fast. Let a vase be blown to pieces, a charge of gunpowder exploded, a speed camera will take a picture of the explosion which will show the particles of the vase being blown from the centre.

Shall we not have a camera soon which will detect the madly whirling atoms and electrons? Shall we not have a machine which will show us what the scientists' already know—that matter is force?

When we have a camera which will record the steam age will not end as the stone age—Grove Patterson in Duluth Herald.

Yvonne regarded him with her female eyes, and then her hands. "Of course they would be worried," she indignantly argued. "People are always finding fault if you are not just like they are, or like they think you ought to be. What's one's life for, if he's not enjoyed?"

"An hour's good time isn't necessarily being wrong about it, you know!" Is it?

He took her place for understanding, promising her better times than untried ones. He had been infected with an unshapen desire of one's own desires, and old-fashioned critics be hanged!"

"Well," Joanna considered, "that's all right. If you mean the truth, I suppose it's all right, so I suppose it's all right. And how can they say their prayers with a smile as well as they can with a crooked?"

"An hour's good time," Brandon proposed. "I suggest another cocktail." He produced Kendwirth's silver flask from under a serviette and filled her glass. She smiled across at him, then she sighed, and fell that she had made another good battle for the rights of youth.

When Kendwirth and Yvonne were again at the table Kendwirth begged Joanna to tell him "if Brandon was a scoundrel in scandal and delivered me as a double idot" while they were dancing.

"That is something I shall have to consider," Joanna returned. "He told me you were at all times, or, at least, you gave me that impression. I wasn't at all afraid of you."

"And that is both a promise and a challenge. I accept both!"

Yvonne's nerves trembled when Yvonne proposed to her that she come to her aid, and she was not alone, for she had a time, anyway. You will want to be getting away from your old atmosphere, you know, and I shall love to have you with me—as long as you wish.

What Kendwirth had said flashed across her mind, his prediction of just this invitation. She fancied that she caught a flicker of his eyes when she said, "I shall play for you, too," spoken to her, Joanna, who was understanding, who had never lost its unlooseness since her first summons to Graydon's office, became suddenly buoyant.

Something in which she was the stake was what she had been offered, and she was sure that they would set for the favors of her heart. And she was not the dancing boy, as light in her heads as they try to be on their feet," she had described them to Graydon, but men of the world, of the world which she had seen, were, without exception, swine. She had never been born by nature of the surfeit of constant make-believe! The world that was without those restraints of meanness.

"And Yvonne?" she suddenly asked Brandon. "I wonder if ever I shall be like her?"

Brandon's question came quickly. Afterwards Joanna returned to her Elysian fields to ask her, "What she?" when she promised that buy something else than dancing pumps.

"Do you want to be like Yvonne?" was what Brandon asked.

"I know what I want to be like, and I know what I don't want to be like her," Joanna replied, so softly and suddenly wistful, that Brandon knew she was, indeed, echoing deep yearnings of her own. "I want to be like her, the model who try to copy."

"To be like her, I would like to copy," was what Brandon asked.

"I know what I want to be like, and I know what I don't want to be like her," Joanna replied, so softly and suddenly wistful, that Brandon knew she was, indeed, echoing deep yearnings of her own.

LAPOINTE AND BUREAU GIVEN A CLEAN SLATE

Quebec.—Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former minister of justice, and Hon. Jacques Bureau, minister of finance, have been declared innocent of any charges of their having taken part in a "joy ride" on board the automata steamer Margaret, at a special inquiry opened here before Sir Francis Lévesque, Calixte Gagnon, former minister, and W. J. O'Connor, as associated with him, and also Inspector Walter Duncan, who probed Montreal customs conditions for the late government, gave the exonerations. There only remains to be produced the last book of accounts which shows a misunderstanding on the part of Mr. Calder, in Ottawa. An interim report will therefore be made by Sir Francis.

After having examined all documents and after Mr. Duncan, Mr. O'Connor and myself have taken note of all relevant evidence and the crew of the Margaret have been examined, I wish to declare publicly and categorically that the inquiry will be closed aboard the Margaret which would be reprobated against the persons named, whether Mr. Lapointe, Mr. Bureau or any of their companions." This was Mr. Calder's concluding up. Mr. O'Connor, the inspector Duncan added that his substantiation.

Mr. Calder announced that the inquiry as to the general movements of the Margaret was not yet completed. This situation therefore will be asked at present to confine itself absolutely to terminating the incident which commenced with the "unconscionable words of Mr. Doucet."

Postpone Conference on Child Welfare

Date Scheduled Come in Week of Federal Election

Ottawa.—The sixth annual Canadian conference on child welfare, which was scheduled for Vancouver, B.C., September 13, 14, 15 and 16, has been postponed on decision of the executive members and the British Columbia committee on arrangements.

It was not desired to hold the sessions during the week of the federal election, and efforts to postpone the conference the following week had to be abandoned when it was found impossible to transfer some of the most important speakers, including Sir Henry Gauvin, of London, England, to another date.

The conference has therefore been indefinitely postponed, but the general secretary, Miss Charlotte Whiteman, of Ottawa, will leave for the west early in October, to arrange for the holding of the sessions on a later date. The annual meeting of the child welfare council will be held in Ottawa during October.

Meighen Denounces Liberals

Says Mr. King Trying to Hide Welter of Wickendness

North Bay, Ont.—Standing at the "port of the great north," the premier of Ontario, Mr. Meighen, declared his readiness to cooperate with the Ontario Government in a practical plan to "get something done" in the development of Northern Ontario water power.

The conference has therefore been indefinitely postponed, but the general secretary, Miss Charlotte Whiteman, of Ottawa, will leave for the west early in October, to arrange for the holding of the sessions on a later date. The annual meeting of the child welfare council will be held in Ottawa during October.

Thinks India Should Have Gold Standard

But Royal Commission Would Not Put Gold in Circulation

London.—The royal commission appointed last year to examine India's currency and exchange has issued a report advocating a true gold standard by India, but not in India, but in England, in a completely viable manner, but without putting gold into circulation.

It is claimed by the commission that its proposal opens the door for the introduction of gold into India, but that it forces that when the time comes India may no longer wish for a gold currency.

To Contact North York

Newmarket, Ont.—Harry Sifton, of Toronto, son of Sir Clifford Sifton, was chosen by North York Liberals to contest the riding at the coming federal election.

Col. A. E. Klickpatrick and Captain Aubrey Ward were also chosen to represent the constituency in which former Premier W. L. Mackenzie King was defeated by Col. T. Horatio Lennox in the 1925 general election.

Delegates Pass Through Canada

London.—British delegates to the meeting of the Empire Parliamentary Association in Australia sailed on the "Empress of Canada" and will therefore pass through Canada.

For the first time since the gathering has been instituted four delegates of the Irish Free State are included.

First Carload of Wheat

Winnipeg.—The first carload of wheat from the 1926 crop was loaded by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at Rosedale, Manitoba.

The wheat is a typical Manitoba first class product and will be moved to Winnipeg for the Ogallie milling Company.

Great Ovation in Rome

Rome.—General Umberto Nobile, captain of the Amundsen-Ellsworth dirigible Nobile on her flight over the North Pole, arrived in Rome from Naples, receiving a great ovation by the populace and warm praise by Pre-

ssor Mussolini.

Would Report Miss Gibson

Almonte—Almonte who has exonerated the Hon. Violet Gibson, who was attempted to assassinate Premier Mussolini of Italy several months ago, have recommended that she be placed in an asylum. They may see that she be handed over to the British authorities for deportation.

Russia Has Keen Competition King Speaks At Prince Albert

Will Have Some Trouble Exporting Grain This Year

Moscow.—Despite the prospect of an excellent harvest, says S. G. Brone, managing director of Canada's largest grain export company, the country will experience great difficulty in exporting grain this year because of the rivalry with the United States which, he adds, is already exporting its surplus.

Indeed, this is confirmed, Russians and Bulgarians had very good crops, a large part of which would be exported. Moreover, Poland, owing to lack of foreign currency, would be compelled to export rice in large quantities at prices, thus competing with Russia.

Importing countries like Italy and France, he explained, would be obliged because of their financial positions to restrict their purchases sharply.

Another Gold Find In Ontario

Among Most Important in Recent Years is Report

Toronto.—A spectacular discovery in the vicinity of Narrow Lake, some 30 to 35 miles northeast of Red Lake, Ontario, has been made by a prospector by Jack Lindsay, who has long come from that district showing samples of free gold, and which are stated to render the find among the most important discoveries made in recent years.

Mr. Lindsay is at present in Toronto.

The discovery was stated by Tom Batherston, Ottawa.

Honored at Welsh Ceremony

Duke and Duchess of York Members of Gorsedd Order of Bards

Swansea.—A strong of 15,000 will attend a public ceremony in the Welsh town on Saturday, September 13, 14, 15 and 16, has been arranged on decision of the executive members and the British Columbia committee on arrangements.

It was not desired to hold the sessions during the week of the federal election, and efforts to postpone the conference the following week had to be abandoned when it was found impossible to transfer some of the most important speakers, including Sir Henry Gauvin, of London, England, to another date.

The conference has therefore been indefinitely postponed, but the general secretary, Miss Charlotte Whiteman, of Ottawa, and then added the Welsh equivalent for "Thank you very much."

Thinks India Should Have Gold Standard

But Royal Commission Would Not Put Gold in Circulation

London.—The royal commission appointed last year to examine India's currency and exchange has issued a report advocating a true gold standard by India, but not in India, but in England, in a completely viable manner, but without putting gold into circulation.

It is claimed by the commission that its proposal opens the door for the introduction of gold into India, but that it forces that when the time comes India may no longer wish for a gold currency.

To Contact North York

Newmarket, Ont.—Harry Sifton, of Toronto, son of Sir Clifford Sifton, was chosen by North York Liberals to contest the riding at the coming federal election.

Col. A. E. Klickpatrick and Captain Aubrey Ward were also chosen to represent the constituency in which former Premier W. L. Mackenzie King was defeated by Col. T. Horatio Lennox in the 1925 general election.

Delegates Pass Through Canada

London.—British delegates to the meeting of the Empire Parliamentary Association in Australia sailed on the "Empress of Canada" and will therefore pass through Canada.

For the first time since the gathering has been instituted four delegates of the Irish Free State are included.

First Carload of Wheat

Winnipeg.—The first carload of wheat from the 1926 crop was loaded by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company at Rosedale, Manitoba.

The wheat is a typical Manitoba first class product and will be moved to Winnipeg for the Ogallie milling Company.

Great Ovation in Rome

Rome.—General Umberto Nobile, captain of the Amundsen-Ellsworth dirigible Nobile on her flight over the North Pole, arrived in Rome from Naples, receiving a great ovation by the populace and warm praise by Pre-

ssor Mussolini.

Would Report Miss Gibson

Almonte—Almonte who has exonerated the Hon. Violet Gibson, who was attempted to assassinate Premier Mussolini of Italy several months ago, have recommended that she be placed in an asylum. They may see that she be handed over to the British authorities for deportation.

Addresses Large Gathering of Electors In His Own Constituency

Prince Albert

King Speaks At Prince Albert

Will Have Some Trouble Exporting Grain This Year

Moscow.—Despite the prospect of an excellent harvest, says S. G. Brone, managing director of Canada's largest grain export company, the country will experience great difficulty in exporting grain this year because of the rivalry with the United States which, he adds, is already exporting its surplus.

Indeed, this is confirmed, Russians and Bulgarians had very good crops, a large part of which would be exported. Moreover, Poland, owing to lack of foreign currency, would be compelled to export rice in large quantities at prices, thus competing with Russia.
